

And pray that there's intelligent life somewhere up in space... 'cos there's bugger-all down here on Earth.

Extraterrestrial Hybrids

Before I began my bizarre journey into the world of energy healing back in 2006, I had no set opinion on whether there was life on other planets. My underlying belief at the time, considering the infinite boundaries of space, was that it's unlikely we're the only life forms. But that's about it. I figured that unless "they" knocked on my door, I wasn't going to give the subject much consideration. As fate would have it, they did knock on my door, and now do have my attention. If you're not familiar with my story, you can read about it here www.red-spirit-energy-healing.com/support-files/et-connection-blog.pdf

So being a convert to accepting we're not alone in this universe, I have described and written about my various experiences in regards to the ET phenomena. And that's the key point. They are my experiences, my interpretations and my understandings, of how we interact with lifeforms with origins other than Earth. I do not expect anyone to automatically accept what I describe and appreciate that this is a very contentious subject. Extremes in views on the existence of extraterrestrial life vary from total non-acceptance of the possibility, to the rabid belief that the vast majority of the human race is at the mercy of some evil, alien, empire. I believe it's these extreme views that prevent many people from describing or admitting to their own experiences.

That aside, I have been asked to begin a discussion on Extraterrestrial Hybrids. This is a complex subject and I'll do my best to bring some understanding on the subject, at least from my perspective. If you wanted to do further reading on the ET phenomena, I suggest reviewing the work by Dolores Cannon as a start point. <https://www.dolorescannon.com/>

The Dual Soul Connection: The Alien Agenda for Human Advancement by Suzy Hansen, with Dr. Rudy Schild is also very informative. <http://www.communicatorlink.com/index.php>

So what do we know and how do we know it?

From my beginnings in energy healing, I have perceived life forms from other planets and other dimensions within the Earth realms. I have no way of proving that to you. Initially I was on my own, and then eventually joined by my wife Chris, who perceives things in her own way. Over time, Chris and others with higher sense perceptions have helped me to accept that my interactions with other beings are indeed real. We have been aided by these other beings during healing sessions with clients and also working on clearing imbalances within the Earth. As such, you may be expecting that we can perform miracles with the help of advanced technology or through some gifted knowledge. Although miracles are indeed possible, the great bulk of the assistance in our work, has been offered in understanding the complexities of the human journey.

This may seem implausible to be receiving guidance from extraterrestrials on the human condition, but there is method in the madness. Just as a new baby is born into a life on Earth, there is a first beginning for everything. The fundamental origins of your life essence, your Soul if you like, could have been ignited by the spark of eternal life on any planet or star, in any form. That first beginning initiates a coding that may be represented as a form of DNA, but it's unlike any that our scientists could recognise or measure. Depending on the level of appropriateness and consciousness, the new being can benefit from the great record of all there is (Akashic record), without the need to learn life anew. Consider then, the newborn on earth may have encoding that is not entirely human. The newborn on earth may already be an old soul so to speak, yet never have experienced a previous existence on Earth. The newborn has the choice of what knowledge to carry from the great record. The newborn may choose to experience multiple coexistences of life on earth at the same instant in time; an existence as parent and child within a single timeline, being one possibility within a sea of potential. But that's a discussion for another day.

What we have come to accept, is that most of the human population on this planet have origins from elsewhere. In the context of who or what we are, I ask you to consider that not every existence has necessarily been on planet Earth or in human form. Just to stretch your thinking a little further, we have been told that the initial origins of most of the souls on Earth were created elsewhere. Less than 10% of the planets human inhabitants carry the purest form of original human encoding. What constitutes or determines original human DNA is no doubt debatable, but this is what we have been told. These are souls who for whatever reason, have chosen to begin their origins on Earth and there is not necessarily a lineage involved, indigenous or otherwise.

Most of us have origins from elsewhere and have chosen to continue an existence, or experience a life on planet earth for our own personal reasons. Or as is the case for many, it's a combination of personal experience and helping the planet in a time of need. So technically, most of us could be considered as hybrids with origins from elsewhere. We all simply wear the cloak of a biological, human form.

Does it not make sense then, that our intergalactic cousins are helping us? I acknowledge this concept can be very challenging, but from our perspective with the work we have been doing, it does make sense; the pieces do fit together. So here we are being aided by other beings who have a mandate to help without directly controlling. We are all being offered insights relative to our level of consciousness or awareness. But there is a flip side. I also have to acknowledge that not all human interaction with other beings, or extraterrestrials, are positive or to our benefit. However, I do not buy into the extreme views by those who believe that any life form other than human is evil. In my opinion, the fear and untruths perpetuated by these extreme groups is more dangerous than anything lurking in the unknown. That said, I don't want to be a Mary Poppins and suggest all interaction is to be welcomed with open arms. We all need to be aware that just as there are people we choose not share our life with, the same applies to beings from other dimensions and/or planets.

Surrounding your originating DNA is what we describe as the matrix, which is the framework creating your form.

So what is a hybrid?

Before we explore that, I just want to clarify what has previously been described. If your soul received its initial spark of life with the view of being a human on Earth, you would be considered to have pure human DNA. There is no right or wrong in this, nothing particularly special, and does not have to be part of a unique lineage. It's all about choice. If your creation was initiated on Pleiades then you would have that DNA. So on it goes whether from Sirius or any other intergalactic race you care to name, many of which are unknown to humans. These are what we describe as your origins and we sometimes question the origins of a client during a healing session, as there can be certain health traits associated with it. Sometimes we discover that what is a common procedure for many, is of little value to those of unique or mixed origins. It's at this point we receive help from those who are aware, or are from the same origins of the client.

It needs to be remembered that some races of particular origins have a difficult time experiencing a human existence and rarely participate in the life process. There are some intergalactic races who flatly refuse to be any part of a human life.

Surrounding your originating DNA is what we describe as the matrix, which is the framework creating your form. The complexity of the matrix is mind boggling and includes all the various dimensional planes of your existence. It's within this matrix we may perceive clues to the origins of a person, and this may include physical characteristics. On one hand there is a level of choice as to what characteristics and abilities are displayed, but the development of the matrix is not a perfect process and glitches can occur. It's within this matrix that you will find combined, parental DNA. Where it can get complicated is that it's possible for a soul to have its initial creation with a combination of differing DNA. My wife Chris is a combination of differing DNA, from two different races, and therefore could be classed as a hybrid being. Whereas for me, I'm a very boring, garden variety of being, with a single race of origin. Here again, we are describing the most fundamental level of creation and is not necessarily related to the choice of parents. Indeed, many races do not procreate via what we would recognise as parental or physical union; there is also cloning to consider, just as one example. So technically speaking you could label this form of DNA combination as hybridisation. From time to time, we are visited by clients who have some form of hybrid DNA which makes a healing session a little different.

Then we have the dual soul phenomena as described by author Suzy Hansen. This is where two souls of different origins agree to combine into one life experience. Their experiences although shared, are processed differently, and are not always consciously recognised. It is suggested to us that this is a relatively new life process, only decades in its inception. At the end of the life experience, the dual souls have a choice to continue combined or to separate. We do not class this as hybridisation, and it would be best to read Suzy's book as the authority on this subject.

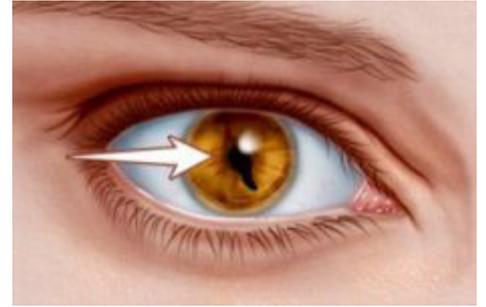

Having described the most fundamental form of hybridisation, we now approach the the very thorny aspect of cross-breeding. At this point I'm sorry to say, that we don't have any special knowledge in this area, or any new insights to support or debunk the plethora of information offered on the internet or by written word. It has to be acknowledged that direct interaction of human and extraterrestrials has been occurring since the beginning of time. Abductions, implants, missing time, experimentation, surgical procedures, phantom pregnancies and more, have all been described or recorded. Some of those experiences have been very harrowing for the participants, and they continue to be affected lifelong, which is no surprise. We certainly do not want to downplay any aspect of that.

The extent of such occurrences, or the reasons why, are unknown to us. We are only given small glimpses into such phenomena by way of clients presenting with problems associated with such experiences. We have worked with clients to resolve periods of missing time and the effects of direct experimentation. Through differing doorways of our perception, we acknowledge that human DNA material has been harvested, manipulated and implanted, with the result of hybrid children being created.

Again, I have to say that we do not know to what extent this occurs or all the reasons why. Whether these hybrid children continue a life on earth or some other planet, is again unknown to us, but suggest it's both. The one understanding we have gained through our work is that in the majority of cases there has been a level of consent. Yes, sometimes there is a violation of free will and that needs to be dealt with, but it is rare. In cases of ET interaction we always look for indicators of free-will violation, as this requires a different approach. Commonly, at some level, somewhere along the line, most participants have agreed to their participation. I know this seems very strange, considering how traumatising it can be for those involved, but it's a message that continues to be reinforced. You will have to make your own determination as to whether the human race benefits from these interactions or not.

You do not have to believe me, and I can't adequately describe the complexities involved in such participation. If we consider this type of interaction has been going on throughout history, you'd be forgiven for thinking that we're surrounded by hybrid beings. Perhaps we are and do not recognise them. What some people may point to as obvious signs of ET hybrids, such as the shape of the eye pupil, the overall eye, or maybe the shape of the head, is most likely a characteristic of their originating DNA showing through. Sometimes we also perceive hints toward origins in the hands and the feet. In regards to the eyes, there is a recognised chromosomal condition known as Cat Eye Syndrome or Coloboma that also needs to be considered (but still DNA related). Sometimes glitches occur in the supporting, biological matrix which is challenged in accommodating the complexities of the underlying DNA.

Cat Eye Syndrome

My point is that just because a person looks different, it does not make them a hybrid. Whenever we have received a tap on the shoulder to indicate a client is a hybrid being, the client has always seemed "normal" in their outward expression. It's only when we begin to dig deeper, that the client expresses some unique abilities not commonly encountered in others. Unique abilities that if fostered, rather than ridiculed, may well help us all. So before you criticise, judge, or point the finger, consider what your own true origins may be.
